Use array created in getView to replace
items in list EDIT- I
updated my question
to better describe my
problem and more
accurately show my expected result. I am adding to a list view from an array created in the `getView()` method. I am currently grabbing all the items from the database and putting them into an array in the `getView()` method, however this results in what is basically a messy listview due to it being from multiple tables. I tried adding the objects to an array list, and then in the getView() I put the array list in a textView, but then I had issues getting the correct data to populate the textview. Is it possible to pass the array created in the getView() to another method? My current code in getView():

```
TextView
exerciseName =
(TextView) v.findViewById
```

```
ById(R.id.textView_exerciseName); exerciseName.setText(cursor.getString(cursor.getColumnIndex(exerciseNameExerciseArray[0]))); TextView exerciseCost = (TextView) v.findViewById(R.id.textView_exerciseCost); exerciseC

ost.setText(cursor 6d1f23a050
